Let get on with our lives. I would encourage all states to settle their cases with Microsoft and quit spending taxpayer money on their own "get more for the consumer." The consumer will not see any of the money directly anyway, so who cares. If they don't want to settle, take their current Microsoft OS away from them and let them find some other operating system instead. I don not under stand their thinking, whom do they think they are helping? The public or themselves? Thanks for listening. Carld
